Description

Toys are part of every child's life, and every adult's childhood memory. Toys have evolved a lot over time, and what you played with is somewhat different than what your kids play with now, and also different than what your parents played with. Toys are the tools for the kids to learn, explore and entertain themselves. They are everywhere (including under your foot!), and we have so many photos of children playing quietly with their favorite toys, children discovering their new toys, or just showcasing what they have. Let's see some scrapbook ideas to showcase some toy photos.

Let's show off

Every child loves to show off. Why not snap a picture of their prized possession, and make it into a scrapbook page!

Antique toys

What did kids play with, 20 years ago? 50 years ago? 100 years ago? Do you happen to have some of them that were handed down from generation to generation? Or just old pictures of them? You might as well showcase them because today's kids might never have seen them!

Of course, grandma might still have a few of those older toys! A pleasure to discover!

Grown up toys

Let's not forget the grown-ups. Yes, those might not be called "toys" any longer, but they still are those "objects they can explore, learn from or be entertained with". Close enough to the definition of TOYS.

Unusual toys

Not all toys are created equal, and sometimes, the most unusual object in the household will be used as a toy. Kids are so creative!
