

Scrapbooking Theme – Mother's Day

Description

Mother's Day is an occasion celebrated worldwide to honor and show appreciation for mothers and mother figures in our lives. It's a day to express gratitude and love for the person who has played an instrumental role in shaping our lives. Some people give gifts such as flowers, cards, or chocolates. Others take their mothers out for a special meal or treat them to a spa day or other pampering activities to show how much they treasure their mothers.

There's no question that moms deserve the very best on Mother's Day. After all, they've been there for us through good times and bad, always offering unconditional love and support. They even had to sacrifice and suffer just to give us comfortable lives and teach us many things. It is important that we show how much our mom means to us. Let's pay back the hardships they had to withstand to raise us and keep us better everyday. Mothers really are a true blessing from heaven. They usually think of us first before themselves.

How would you like to celebrate Mother's day this year? Whatever you do, make sure to let your mother know how much you care about her. You can even cherish moments and give thanks to your wonderful mothers through creating a fantastic scrapbook page just for her! Take a look at these marvelous scrapbook layouts that will give you ideas to create your special page that will surely make your mothers burst into tears of joy!

Best Mom

On Mother's Day, all mothers deserve to be celebrated for their boundless love and selflessness. From always being there for you when you need her, to always having a shoulder to cry on, your mom is the best!

A teacher and a great supporter

It is difficult to find the words to express how much our mothers mean to us. They are our best friends, our confidants, and our biggest supporters. The ones who have been there for us through thick and thin, and who have always had our best interests at heart. Our best teachers and great supporters in everything we do!

HOMESCHOOL

Year 14 of my teaching career looks very different than the previous years.

When I learned that I would be having a total gastrectomy, I decided to take a medical sabbatical for the 2021-2023 school year. Recovery from a surgery this extensive is lengthy, unpredictable, and has the potential to affect my ability to do my job effectively. I've been lucky to have a relatively easy recovery so far, but I still have a long way to go with no guarantee things will remain this easy as I progress. My doctors, family, and I decided that a medical sabbatical was in my best interest as I get used to what life is like without a stomach. Additionally, the gene mutation that I have also puts me at a 60% lifetime risk of developing lobular breast cancer, so I will be using this time to undergo imaging and testing to determine if I need to have a risk-reducing double mastectomy.

While I absolutely will miss my students and teaching, the benefit of my surgery and my sabbatical is that I have more time to stay at home with Molly. I've been joking that I'm temporarily trading high school English and communications for early childhood education. Instead of six classes a day with 20-30 students each, now I'll only have one student. But don't worry, I'll be back in my classroom (cancer free) next school year.

Mom to Be

Many soon-to-be mothers are feeling a mix of emotions. Some are excited and others are nervous, but all are anticipating the arrival of their little one. Whether this is your first child or your fifth, becoming a mom is a special and momentous occasion.

Mom and Me

A mother's love is unending. It's the very thing that keeps us going when we feel like we can't. It's what drives us to be better people, to do better for our children and for the world around us. From small acts of kindness to silly inside jokes, these moments show the special bond between mother and child.
